1. Everyday and Savings Accounts

Everyday Account

The Everyday Account is designed for daily banking. It has no monthly account-keeping fee. Customers can receive salary payments, make purchases using an eligible debit card, pay bills, and transfer funds through online and mobile banking.

Savings Account

The Savings Account has no monthly account-keeping fee. The standard variable interest rate is 2.10% per annum. Customers who deposit at least AUD 500 during a calendar month and make no more than one withdrawal during that month may qualify for a bonus rate of 4.25% per annum for that month.

Joint accounts

Everyday and Savings Accounts may be opened as joint accounts by up to two eligible customers. Both applicants must complete identity verification before the account can be activated.

2. Domestic Payments and Transfer Limits

Transfers between your own accounts

Transfers between a customer's own Example Bank Everyday and Savings Accounts are free and normally appear immediately.

Transfers to another Australian bank

Standard electronic transfers to another Australian financial institution do not attract an Example Bank transfer fee. Payments submitted before 6:00 pm Melbourne time on a business day are normally processed on the same business day, although the receiving institution controls final availability.

Daily transfer limits

The default daily limit for transfers to external Australian bank accounts is AUD 5,000 per customer. Eligible customers can request an increase up to AUD 20,000 through secure online banking. Higher limits may require additional verification.

Note: All names, rates, fees, limits, telephone numbers, and product conditions in this document are fictional and exist only for testing the Agentic Banking Platform.

3. International Transfers

Fees

The standard fee for an international transfer initiated through online banking is AUD 10. Intermediary or recipient banks may impose additional charges that Example Bank does not control.

Processing time

International transfers normally reach the recipient within 1 to 3 business days. Delays can occur because of public holidays, compliance checks, intermediary banks, or incomplete recipient information.

Supported destinations

Example Bank currently supports online international transfers to Australia-approved destinations including Canada, France, Germany, Japan, New Zealand, Singapore, the United Kingdom, and the United States. Availability can change because of regulatory or correspondent-banking requirements.

Foreign exchange

When currency conversion is required, the exchange rate displayed before confirmation includes Example Bank's applicable foreign exchange margin.

Lost or stolen cards

A lost or stolen debit card should be reported immediately. Customers can report a card through the mobile banking application or by calling the 24-hour card security line on 1800 555 014.

Temporary freeze

A customer who is unsure whether a card is lost can temporarily freeze it in mobile banking. A freeze blocks new card purchases but may not stop transactions that were authorised before the freeze.

Replacement cards

A standard replacement debit card is provided without a replacement fee when the original card is lost, stolen, damaged, or compromised. Standard delivery normally takes 5 to 7 business days.

Disputed transactions

Customers who identify a transaction they do not recognise should report it through the transaction dispute process in online or mobile banking. The bank may request supporting information during its investigation.

Daily cash withdrawal limit

The standard daily cash withdrawal limit is AUD 1,000 per debit card. Customers may request a temporary limit change, subject to security checks and account eligibility.

Overseas ATM use

Overseas ATM withdrawals may involve foreign exchange conversion and fees imposed by the overseas ATM operator. Customers should review the amount and currency shown by the ATM before confirming a withdrawal.

Interest

The interest rate is fixed when the term deposit is opened and remains unchanged for the agreed term. The exact rate depends on the selected term and the rates available on the opening date.

Maturity

Before maturity, customers can choose to receive the balance into an eligible Example Bank account or reinvest the funds in a new term deposit. If no instruction is received, the maturity instructions recorded on the account apply.
